QUESTIONS AND CONCERNS

All library users have a right to question library procedures and policies.

If the library user questions the selection of library materials, staff should refer the person to the Director and/or Assistant Director.

The library recognizes its responsibility for the selection of materials to meet the needs of the total community, to provide trained staff to assist customers and to operate a quality, user-friendly facility. The library strives to provide the most service to the greatest number of people and provides materials that appeal to a diverse population.

The library user may request or be asked to complete a Request for Reconsideration of Library Materials. The request will be reviewed by the Director and a determination made regarding the material in question.

The responsibility for children's use of the library rests with their parents or guardians. The parent or guardian can and should monitor and guide their children in the selection of appropriate materials for use or borrowing. The library does not restrict the child's right to view or use materials inside the facility. While the library does make a conscience effort to separate children and adult materials, children do have full access to all library material. Children are allowed to use library books, magazines, videos, computers and other materials and equipment without prior permission of parents or guardians. The parent or guardian should be aware that the resources of the library are available to children. It is the right and privilege of the parent or guardian to guide and monitor their children in the use of these resources.
